- With skin, not breaded, see FRESH FISH.

Fresh Fish – Whole fish and fish steaks should, preferably, be purchased from a store which has reliable rabbinical supervision. This is because non-kosher stores that sell fish commonly use one knife to cut different species, kosher and non-kosher alike. Therefore, residue from the slicing of non-kosher fish may remain on the blade of the knife and, subsequently, be rubbed onto the cutting site of the kosher fish. However, when this option is unavailable, one may buy whole fish or fish steaks, even gutted, from any store, provided the following conditions are met:

1. One did not actually see the kosher fish soaking amidst non-kosher fish.
2. Some removable scales are still on the fish.
3. Prior to cooking the fish, one should take a straight edged knife and, using only minimal pressure, scrape off the area where the store knife would have cut. This would remove any residue from the blade that cut the non-kosher fish. (No solid fish pieces are cut or removed during this process.)

Guide to Kashrus – Does it Need a Hechsher (Certification)? (Year-round, not Pesach/Passover)

4. Subsequently, wash the fish thoroughly.

VEGETABLES

All vegetables originating from Israel requires reliable certification. Due to the sanctity of Eretz Yisroel there are special obligations that apply to its produce and certification assures us that these requirements were met.

Canned

Canned vegetables (and beans) are often produced on equipment used for non-kosher products and, therefore, require reliable certification:

The following are some varieties of canned vegetables:

- Baby Corn
- Bamboo Shoots
- Beets
- Carrots
- Corn, plain or Cream Style
- Green Beans
- Hearts Of Palm
- Hominy
- Mixed Vegetables
- Mushrooms
- Peas
- Peas & Carrots
- Pumpkin
- Sweet Potato
- Tomato Products
- Water Chestnuts
- Wax Beans
- Yams
- Zucchini

Fresh

Fresh vegetables (which were not grown in Israel) do not require certification. However, some varieties require a thorough inspection and/or cleaning to ensure that they are free of insects.

Note: Even those vegetables or herbs that commonly have insects can be cooked using a filter bag (also called a Bodek bag, it is a bag of very fine mesh). The herbs are sealed inside the bag and placed in a pot. After cooking, the entire bag (with its contents) is removed and discarded. These bags are available at the East Side Kosher Deli.

Vegetables that commonly do not have insects should still be examined to assure that they are free of decay which may indicate insect infestation.

The following fresh herbs and vegetables have been found to have problematic infestation. The levels of infestation, and the methods of removal, vary with each species, but all require at least some amount of checking and/or cleaning. A comprehensive treatment of the topic can be found on our website.

Artichoke, leaves and heart
Arugula

Asparagus - White asparagus is not prone to insects and can be used without inspection.
